

CEPAR SUMMER SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM GUIDELINES

A limited number of CEPAR Summer Scholarships are available to provide undergraduate students with an opportunity to learn what is involved in undertaking a research project. Successful applicants will join one of several research teams over a defined period during the summer break to undertake a specific project focused on population ageing.

Projects available

A full list of projects will be advertised in August each year.

Eligibility

Local and international students enrolled in the second or third year of a full-time program at Australian or New Zealand universities are eligible to apply.

Benefits and tenure

Successful applicants will receive a maximum stipend of $5,000 for a 6-week project* (to take place over the summer break, generally between November and February). For projects more or less than 6 weeks in duration the stipend will be pro-rated.

*Please note students will not be required over any university Christmas shutdown period.

Application procedure and deadline

Application forms will be available on the CEPAR website from July each year and applications will close in September.

Assessment

Applications will be assessed by CEPAR on the basis of academic merit, research potential and alignment with the required knowledge and skills as well as preferred attributes specified in the project description. It is expected that successful applicants will be notified by email in the first week of November.
